

Mullaghmore Head

Description

Mullaghmore Head, a big wave beast with an Irish style, is found in County Sligo, North Western Coast of Ireland. Renowned in big wave surfing, this spot consistently generates its massive waves during the winter season. On top of its impressive waves, the changeable and strong currents, the rocks underneath, and Baltic weather conditions during winter on the western coast of Ireland bring tremendous challenges to surfing the reef.

Metadata

- GPS Coordinates: 54.2830°N, 8.2701°W
- City: Mullaghmore
- Country: Ireland
- Landmarks: Natural Wonders
- Cadastral Number: IE.L.NW.M.1